This podcast is designed to help small business owners, sales professionals and aspiring entrepreneurs with the various aspects of business success. We do not interview people about their personal stories, their business, or their book.

Rather, our guests provide their expertise. We also do not allow sales pitches. The show is informational in nature. Every guest is given time at the end of their segment to share information about their business, book, workshop, etc.

The show is conversational. I will not ask you a question that is not germane to your topic or the conversation we are having. You will not be expected to provide a monologue. Please listen to previous episodes to get a feel for the flow. It's relaxed and easy.
